REPORT.

My dear Classmates,— Your Secretary started to publish a Report in 1890, but, as has already been explained to you in circulars, felt obliged to give it up for lack of material and the energy necessary to extract it. Having recovered from this effort and gotten rid of duties which absorbed pretty much all his time, he has tried again this year, and hopes the result set forth in the following pages will be as satisfactory to you as it has been agreeable to him in collecting it.

It will be seen that, while a few from whom we have been accustomed to hear have not responded to my solicitous appeals, I have heard directly or indirectly from nearly all the class, including even Straw, and can only regret that the replies are so short. However, my principal object in publishing a Report at this time is in order that we may not drift too far apart, and as a sort of picking up of loose threads for a more complete Report in 1897.

The past nine years have been saddened by the loss of many classmates who stood high in our esteem and affections. They include two of our marshals, the Chairman of the Class Committee, and one of our leading scholars. Of the graduates, seven have died since the publication of the Report in 1885, and of the non-graduates two. As our ranks are thus thinned out, we must stand the closer together, and make the most of the friendships which remain. There is one thing very apparent to your Secretary, and that is the increased good feeling in the class as shown at our annual dinners. The average attendance is increasing; and I cannot too strongly urge each one of you, even at some personal sacrifice, to be present, and add to the pleasure of our reunions.

I regret that I cannot give more time to the interests of the class, and must appeal to each of you for all the assistance you can give me. I wish to acknowledge here my indebtedness to Ned Russell, Mills, and Williams in particular, and all others who have kindly assisted me in the preparation of our annual dinners and meetings. I wish to thank all the class for their ready replies to my numerous circulars, and to ask that you will notify me at once of any change in your addresses. The ones which I do not now possess are those of Altrocchi, Arthur Burgess, Chase, Felton, W. C. French, and E. E. Waters.

Remember that this Report is intended to cover only the time since June, 1885; and it may therefore seem incomplete.

The Report of the Class Fund is printed separately, and will be sent to each one of the class.

Wishing you all happiness and prosperity, I am

Very truly yours,

ALBERT L. LINCOLN, Jr.,

Class Secretary.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

JUNE, 1885 — JUNE, 1894.

CHARLES ALMY. Continues the practice of law at 50 State Street, Boston. In December, 1891, was appointed Justice of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex. A daughter, Anna Cabot, was born March 6, 1886; a son, Charles, Jr., April 11, 1888; and another daughter, Elizabeth Mason, Aug. 28, 1892. Resides at 147 Brattle Street, Cambridge.

NICOLA ALTROCCHI. Soon after the last report he returned to Europe, where he intended to live; and the Secretary has not since heard from him.

JOHN FORRESTER ANDREW. Continues the practice of law. In 1889 was elected on the Democratic ticket to the 51st Congress, and served in that and the 52d Congress. Andrew began the battle for honest money by the introduction of a bill to repeal that part of the Sherman law which provided for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion per month. He also took an active part in behalf of tariff reform, and was chairman of the select committee on Civil Service Reform, eliciting from Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt the declaration that "the friends of civil service reform without distinction of party are to be congratulated upon having such a committee in the House and especially upon having such a chairman as Mr. Andrew." He was also a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs. He was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1886. A daughter, Elizabeth, was born April 9, 1886. His wife died Sept. 16, 1891. He resides at 32 Hereford Street, Boston, the greater part of the year, and at Hingham during the summer.

JOHN COLEMAN AVERY. Has sent no reply to the Secretary's circulars. From Donohue it is learned that he still resides in Cincinnati.

GEORGE FRANKLIN BABBITT. Is serving his sixteenth year as Health Commissioner of the city of Boston. He is also on the editorial staff of the Boston Herald. Is unmarried. Resides at 10 Charles Street, Boston.

CHARLES FRANCIS BAKER. Continues the practice of law in the firm of Norcross & Baker at Fitchburg, where he also resides.

* CECIL BARNES. Born Aug. 4, 1851 ; died March 19, 1880. See Fourth Report, p. 8.

GEORGE SCHUYLER BATES. The class has not heard from him before since 1880. He writes as follows: "Left the Boston Globe in summer of 1881, and few months later went to Chicago, intending to practise law. Health failed, and went South, spending nearly two years in Louisiana and Texas. Returned to California in 1884, and went on Los Angeles Times, remaining there until May, 1893, when came to Riverside to edit the Daily Enterprise, and still engaged in that work. Married June 9, 1884, at Dallas, Texas, to Ellen Sanders Dixon, daughter of the Rev. Thomas F. and Sarah A. Dixon. Has had four children: William Ransom, born March 19, 1885; Mary Covington, born May 16, 1887; George Dixon, born March 7, 1889; and a son not yet named, born May 13, 1894. His daughter, Mary C., died Oct. 24, 1890. He resides in Riverside, Cal."

WILLIAM STACY BEAMAN. Continues the practice of the law at 140 Nassau Street, New York. Resides at No. 11 East 44th Street, New York.

PERRY BELMONT. Have not heard from Belmont since 1890. He then wrote as follows: Served in the 47th, 48th, 49th, and 50th Congresses. Chairman of the Committee of Foreign Affairs of the House during the 49th and 50th Congresses. Minister to Spain, appointed in November, 1888, served till June 15, 1889. Appointed Commander of the National Order of the Legion of Honor, by the President of the French Republic, Feb. 6, 1890. Life member of the New York Historical Society. Resides at 109 Fifth Avenue, New York.

ARTHUR SMITH BIRD. The following information was received from Bird in 1890, the only direct reply which the Secretary has had from him since 1875: "Returned from South America in 1880 to Stockton, Maine. Practised my profession there till 1887, when I came to New York, entered the Woman's Hospital of that city in February, 1888, as an Interne, where I remained till August, 1889. In October, 1889, was appointed Assistant Surgeon upon the Visiting Staff of the Hospital, and am engaged in practice in New York City." Received the degree of M.D., 1876, College Physicians and Surgeons, New York City. Is a member of Maine Medical Society, 1876. Is a Fellow of New York Obstetrical Society, 1890. Married in 1877 to Julia Edith Churchill (daughter of James Morrill Churchill and Harriet Hook Churchill), who died in July, 1883. A son, George Emerson, was born June 7, 1878, and died October, 1878. Resides in New York City. From Beaman it is learned that he is still connected with the Woman's hospital.

CHARLES ROBERTS BRICKETT. He writes as follows: "From June 1, 1885, to Aug. 12, 1886, was principal comedian with Will L. Smith's Bell-ringers, a concert company. From Aug. 25, 1886, to July 14, 1887, was with Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company, playing Marks, the lawyer. From Aug. 19, 1887, to May 1, 1888, was with Witherell Brothers' Minstrels. During the seasons of 1888, 1889, 1890, and 1891 was with Stetson's Uncle Tom Company. During the seasons of 1892, 1893, and 1894 was with Dick P. Sutton's Specialty Company, and during the summer season of 1894 with Witherell Brothers' Circus and Uncle Tom show combined." He is billed as Charles Brickwood, the Banjo King, and has published Charles Brickwood's "Great Banjo Songster" containing all the "choice vocal gems." In 1890 he wrote to the Secretary: "My career has indeed been a romantic one. I have 'seen the country,' surely. I have been highly successful in the 'show business.' But I am now approaching forty, and I sincerely think of making my 'farewell tour' soon. Please give my sincere regards to all my classmates."

JOHN COTTON BROOKS. Has been rector of Christ's Church, Springfield, Mass., from December, 1878, to the present time. Travelled abroad in the summer of 1892. "At the Episcopal Archdeaconry Convention, held in Springfield, May 21, 1894, for the election of an Archdeacon for the counties of Hampden, Hampshire, Franklin, and Berkshire, Bishop Lawrence nominated the Rev. John Cotton Brooks, and the Convention ratified the nomination by an unanimous vote."

* HORACE BROWN. Born Aug. 31, 1851; died July 5, 1883. See Fifth Report, pp. 9, 10.

JOHN FREEMAN BROWN. Continued the practice of law in Boston until September, 1888. In 1885 and 1886 was a member of the Boston Common Council. And in 1887 and 1888 was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, being upon the Committee of Bills in Third Reading both years. Sept. 13, 1888, was appointed Clerk of the Municipal Court of the City of Boston for Civil Business, which position he continued to hold until May 31, 1894, when he became Associate Justice of the same court, receiving his appointment from Governor Greenhalge. May 27, 1893, a son, John Freeman, Jr., was born. Resides Brush Hill Road, Milton, Mass.

ARTHUR BURGESS. No reply has been received from him.

WALTER BURGESS. Real estate broker, 113 Devonshire Street, Boston. Made a voyage to the Mediterranean, and travelled three months in Europe, from November, 1889, to January, 1890. Resides in Brookline.

ARTHUR TRACY CABOT. Has been abroad since the middle of last March, expecting to return this summer; and no direct reply has been received from him. In 1890 he wrote that a broken arm delayed his answer at that time. He was then Visiting Surgeon to the Massachusetts General Hospital, Consulting Surgeon to the Children's Hospital, to the New England Hospital for Women and Children, and to the Carney Hospital; Clinical Instructor in Genito-urinary Diseases at Harvard, and a member of the following societies in addition to those named in my last report: American Academy of Arts and Sciences; American Surgical Association; and American Andrological Association. Resides at No. 3 Marlboro Street, Boston.

EDWARD BELCHER CALLENDER. Continues to practise law at No. 1 Pemberton Square, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM WITHINGTON CARTER. In 1886, on account of threatened ill-health, resigned the positions of Principal and Superintendent of Schools of Englewood, and has since been engaged in the mortgage loan and real estate business with Mr. H. B. Lewis, under the firm name of Lewis & Carter (Englewood), Chicago. Resides at No. 6012 Indiana Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

CHARLES WELLS CHASE. Have not heard from him directly. When last heard from, was connected with the Forum in New York.

ALBERT WHEELWRIGHT COBB. Has continued in the business of "importing and grocery commission" with the firm name of Albert W. Cobb & Co. Has been elected Alderman of Lake Forest, Ill., where he resides, "with no pay and find myself." A son, Malcolm, was born July 14, 1890, and a daughter, Elizabeth Dallam, born March 2, 1892, "making seven in all, in good health." His son, Albert, takes his preliminary examinations for Harvard, this month, June, 1894.

JOHN SERGEANT CRAM. Has continued in law and politics. Is President of the New York Docks Commission, and, I believe, a Tammany sachem, and a governor of the Manhattan Club. Resides at 5 East 38th Street, New York.

OTIS HENRY CURRIER. Is in the wholesale fruit business with Jacob Brown & Co., 135 State Street, Boston. Resides at 18 Forster Street, Somerville, Mass.

*AMMI CUTTER. Was born in Buffalo, Nov. 9, 1851, and was the son of Ammi Winship Cutter, a grain commission merchant. He received his early education in the schools of that city, but was prepared for college at Exeter, N.H. He was a member of the Everett Athenæum, and showed a good deal of taste for literature, of which he was very fond. He left college with a desire to lead a literary life, but with the intention of studying law. He died in Buffalo, Dec. 30, 1885; and the following facts are taken from the notice of his death in the Courier of that city, sent me by Ralph Stone:—

The deceased was born in Buffalo, Nov. 9, 1851. He received his early education in the schools of this city; prepared for college at Exeter, N.H., and graduated from Harvard with the class of '72. He began the study of law in the office of Wadsworth & White, and after the usual period was admitted to the bar. In 1878 he became managing clerk for Bowen, Rogers & Locke, remaining in that position until 1881. Three years ago he entered into a law partnership with his college classmate, Ralph Stone; and this business relation continued up to the time of his death. During the month of June last Mr. Cutter succeeded Tracy C. Becker in the district attorney's office, winning no little distinction as a criminal prosecutor in the courts. Had his promising career not been untimely cut short, a decade hence, doubtless, he would have taken a high place among the leading lights of the local bar. One of the chief events in his short professional career was his tenacious defence of Martin Flanigan, the murderer, for whom he worked without pay. He appealed the case at his own expense, the prisoner being penniless, and followed it up in the higher courts. Defeated at last in the Court of Appeals, he presented the case of his client in person to Governor Cornell, and secured a commutation of sentence. The deceased was a member of the Orpheus, one of the founders of the Senior Shakspere Club, and a communicant of Trinity Church.

Mr. Cutter was a man of deep literary culture, fine conversational powers, and all those qualities of mind and heart which win friends and retain them. In the official and family circles where he was best known his loss will be keenly felt.

At the meeting of the Bar of Erie County to take action on his death the following resolution was adopted: —

Resolved, That this meeting of the Bar of Erie County has not assembled for the purpose of pronouncing the eulogies proper to those members of the profession who have been distinguished by long, varied, and eminent services at the bar and in public life, but to express the sorrow and sympathy which are naturally awakened by the sudden and untimely death of a professional brother, who, while occupying an honorable position at the bar, had not yet advanced beyond the threshold of his life as a lawyer and a citizen. Mr. Ammi Cutter was born in Buffalo in the year 1851. A graduate of Harvard College in 1872. He commenced the practice of his profession in 1872 in this city. He acquired, before his death, a prominent position as a jury lawyer; and his mental endowments, social accomplishments, generous disposition, and, perhaps most of all, his ardent temperament and enthusiastic devotion to every cause in which he was interested made him widely known in his profession and in the political party to which he was attached. The qualities of his character were such that we feel confident that, when he was so suddenly taken from us last Thursday morning, he had not an enemy in the world; while his loss is mourned by many attached friends both in the profession and in political and other circles in Buffalo. His reputation as an honest man and sincere friend was without spot or blemish. The Bar of Buffalo, including those especially who were nearest to him in age and companionship, desire to testify by these resolutions to their appreciation of his many attractive traits of character, their sorrow for his loss, and their heartfelt sympathy for the sorrowing members of his family who have been summoned by his death to drink a second time within the past month the bitter cup of domestic bereavement.

Our classmate, Ralph Stone, was present, and spoke as follows : —

Mr. Stone said he felt on the occasion that he could not well be silent. It was eighteen years ago that he first saw Ammi Cutter. For four years in college they occupied the same room. Others may speak of his laurels won at the bar, but it was the speaker's privilege to speak of him as a friend. He was a gentleman. He never betrayed a confidence. There were always persons whom he was endeavoring to assist. Mr. Stone gave instances where Mr. Cutter gave assistance to poor people, in getting them positions and giving them legal advice free. Mr. Cutter had a wonderful way of winning the confidence of people.

At our Commencement meeting June 30, 1886, the Secretary reported the death of Cutter, and read the foregoing record. Resolutions were then passed by the class, a copy of which was sent to R. Stone, to be presented to Cutter's brother and sister; and it was voted that they should be entered in the Class Book. They were as follows : —

The class of 1872 assembled at Commencement at Cambridge, having heard the announcement by the Secretary of the death at Buffalo, N.Y., on Dec. 30, 1885, of Ammi Cutter, his classmates desire to express their sincere appreciation and admiration of his rare personal qualities, of his generous and noble nature, of his fine intellectual ability and his gentle and engaging manners. He will be missed and his memory cherished by his classmates, who offer also the expressions of their warm sympathy to his family.

Resolved, That these expressions be placed upon the Class Book, and a copy of them be sent to Brother Ralph Stone for transmission to the members of Brother Cutter's family.

EDEN REEDER DONOHUE. Continues the practice of law at 68 and 69 Johnston Buildings, Cincinnati, Ohio.

WILLIAM HENRY ELLIOT. Writes as follows: "I still live in Keene. My principal occupation is as Secretary of a local insurance company. I have held no offices except occasionally to act as member of the municipal government here. I have also been an officer in various private corporations, mostly local. I have three children : Julia, about seven years old; John, about five years old; and Rosamond, about three years old."

*WILLIAM EVARTS. Died April 26, 1878. See Third Report, p. 13; Fourth Report, p. 32.

CORNELIUS CONWAY FELTON. Have heard nothing from Felton directly since my last report. He is still, I think, in Santa Barbara, Southern California, where E. B. Russell met him in the spring of 1892, in good health, and engaged in farming.

CHARLES NEWTON FESSENDEN. Have received no reply from him. He was married May 15, 1886, at Christ's Church, St. Louis, by Rev. Dr. Schuyler, to Elizabeth A. Burkitt.

*ALFRED WITHINGTON FIELD. Born May 15, 1851; died July 29, 1882. See Fifth Report, pp. 12, 13.

HENRY MIDDLETON FISHER. Is Attending Physician to the Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia, Outpatient Physician to the Pennsylvania Hospital, and in May, 1890, was elected Pathologist to the Pennsylvania Hospital. In February, 1893, was elected Treasurer of the Philadelphia College of Physicians. Is also Treasurer of the American Forestry Association, Fellow of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, member of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, of the Pathological Society, of the Academy of Natural Sciences, and director of one of the District Associations of the Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity. Is a Vestryman of St. Peter's P. E. Church and the Church of the Crucifixion. During the month of June, 1888, he worked in the laboratory of Professor Koch in Berlin. Resides at Philadelphia and Alverthorpe, near Jenkintown, Penn. He writes: "I am at last seriously considering leaving the ranks of the bachelors, and hope to be married in the latter part of June."

GEORGE FISKE. Is in no active occupation. Has made two trips to England during the past two summers. Is a Vestryman of Trinity Church in Concord, where he resides. Was married Dec. 13, 1888, at Lynn, Mass., to Mary E. Rood, daughter of Stephen Bamford and Mary Rood. A son was born Nov. 27, 1892, and died soon after.

THOMAS FRENCH, JR. Is Professor of Physics in the University of Cincinnati, where he has been since March, 1883. Was consulting electrician for the city of Cincinnati in May, 1889 and 1890. Is associate member of the American Institute of American Engineers. Resides at Avondale, Cincinnati, Ohio.

WILLIAM CLIFFORD FRENCH. Has not been heard from. The Secretary no longer has his address.

*WILLIAM PRESCOTT FROST. Died at San Francisco, Cal., May 5, 1885. See Fifth Report, pp. 14 and 15. At the Commencement meeting in 1885 the following resolutions were passed by the class, and afterwards sent to Frost's widow by the Secretary: —

Whereas the class of 1872 have heard with grief and sorrow of the death of their classmate, W. P. Frost, and desire to pay tribute to his memory,

Resolved, By his untimely death a life has been cut off which had already reaped a harvest of success and prosperity, and which had proved a capacity for increased and more extended usefulness.

Resolved, That we appreciate and respect the energy and perseverance of his character, and the faithful devotion to duty by which he met and overcame all obstacles in his pathway, maintained a high standing in college, and acquired an honorable and honored position in the community in which he dwelt.

Resolved, That we tender our sincere sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased classmate, and that we share with them the loss they have suffered.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of our class, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

*RICHARD AUGUSTINE GAMBRILL. Was born at Baltimore, Md., Dec. 5, 1849, where his home continued to be until the time he entered college, his father being Charles Alexander Gambrill, resident and engaged in business there. Gambrill prepared for college at Phillips Exeter Academy. During all of the college course he was one of the best known and most prominent men of the class, and a leader in influence and personal popularity. He was a member of the Freshman baseball nine, but subsequently did not take a very active part in college athletics. He was a member of the Institute of 1770, and presided at its hundredth anniversary, the Δ. K. E., the A. D., the Glee Club, the Porcellian Club, and the Hasty Pudding Club, and was president of the latter. He and Felton were chums during the Junior and Senior years. Gambrill was also second marshal of the class.

After graduation he and West travelled in Europe for two years; and on their return in 1874 Gambrill entered the Law School, where he graduated in 1877. He then removed to New York, which afterwards was always his residence. He was for a time in the office of the corporation counsel in New York City, and subsequently opened an office of his own.

In May, 1888, he was married at the City of New York to Miss Anna Van Nest. He died in that city, Jan. 4, 1890, of pneumonia, after a short and sudden illness. Subsequently to his death his son, Richard Van Nest Gambrill, was born in July, 1890. His widow, in 1891, gave to the college the sum of $10,000, establishing therewith a scholarship for the aid of undergraduates, to be know as the Richard Augustine Gambrill scholarship, as a memorial of him.

The death of Gambrill was heard of with great regret by all of his classmates, who will always recall with pleasure his fine personal appearance, his cordial and agreeable manners, his cultivated and literary tastes, and his high personal character. By those of us who knew him intimately his loss will always be severely felt; for he was greatly endeared to his friends by many traits of manliness, generosity, and kindness.— C. H. R.

His death was reported to the class at the Commencement meeting June 25, 1890; and a letter of sympathy was subsequently sent by the Secretary in behalf of the class to his widow.

GEORGE ALONZO GIBSON. Treasurer Ivers & Pond Piano Company, Boston. Resides Forest Street, Medford, Mass.

FRANK AUSTIN GOOCH. Elected Professor of Chemistry in Yale College in 1885 with a membership in the Academic Faculty and Faculty of Graduate Instruction, and began service in September, 1886, the year 1886–87 being given to the planning and building of the Kent Chemical Laboratory. Received the degree of A.M. (honorary) from Yale University in 1887. Elected member of the Connecticut Academy of Arts and Sciences 1888. Corresponding Member of the New York Academy of Sciences 1888. Associate Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences 1890. Has published papers as follows: In the Proceedings of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, "A Method for the Separation and Estimation of Boric Acid, with an Account of a Convenient Form of Apparatus for Quantitative Distillation"; "A Method for the Separation of Sodium and Potassium from Lithium by the Action of Amyl Alcohol on the Chlorides, with some Reference to a Similar Separation of the Same for Magnesium and Calcium." In Vol. XV. Report of the United States Tenth Census: "Analyses of Coals and Lignites of the North-west"; "The Conversion of Lignite into Fuel of High Heating Power." In Bulletin of the Geological Survey, No. 47 (in connection with J. E. Whitfield): "Analyses of Waters of the Yellowstone National Park, with an Account of the Methods of Analysis employed." In the American Journal of Science (with P. S. Branning): "A Method for the Determination of Iodine in Haloid Salts"; (with F. W. Mar) "Two Methods for the Direct Determination of Chlorine in Mixture of Alkaline Chlorides and Iodides." And about twenty chemical papers, chiefly in the American Journal of Science, since 1885. A daughter, Meredyth Gooch, was born Aug. 3, 1890. Resides at 388 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

ALLEN WALTON GOULD. Writes as follows: "I think I made out a somewhat careful statement, including a list of publications of various kinds, and sent it to you the last time you sent your request to me,— which was in 1890, I believe. I was in hopes that you had kept it, as I am too busy just at present and too far away from my books and papers to duplicate it; but the details it contained were of no particular consequence, and I can give you the general facts, in my office here, from memory. I was Professor of Latin at Olivet five years, from 1883 to 1888; but I found my position steadily less congenial each year. I was a thorough believer in evolution, and did not hesitate to teach it both in the class-room and on the platform; and, as Olivet was a conservative orthodox institution, things grew very hot, and, consequently, I resigned my position in 1888, and began to preach the gospel of evolution. I was settled three years at Manistee, Mich., a place of some 20,000 inhabitants on Lake Michigan. In 1891 I was called for the second time to a church in one of the suburbs of Chicago, and accepted the call. It was a church which Mr. Gannett had started a few years before, and was of the radical type. I remained there until last fall, when I was chosen Secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference. As that is a salaried post, requiring all of my time and taking me over the country, I, of course, gave up my church, although I am still preaching every Sunday. In regard to your second question, of degrees, honors, etc., I do not think that any details would be interesting even to my classmates. Of publications I made a list that surprised me by its numbers; but I cannot duplicate it now, and most of the articles were of merely transient interest, in periodicals like the Popular Science Monthly, Unitarian Review, and lesser lights. This year I published a book called 'Beginnings, according to Legend and according to the Truer Story.' It was published here in Chicago last September. The first edition is exhausted, and we are now at work on a second edition to come out in August or September. I will send you a copy of the second edition when it comes out. On Oct. 4, 1889, our first and only little girl was born. Her name is Lina Marguerite Gould; and she is a delightful little girl, as, of course, all the girls of '72 must be. My present residence is, I believe, the last question on your examination paper. That is Hinsdale, Ill., though my mail all comes to our office, 175 Dearborn Street, Chicago." The only list which the Secretary has, which may be the one referred to above, is as follows: "Seed-time and Harvest," Olivet, 1885. "Is Unitarianism a Sect or a Religion?" Chicago, 1889. "Could Adam count?" Boston, 1889. "And perhaps sixty other articles and poems in various papers and periodicals since I wrote you last. They are all ephemeral, not worth cataloguing. I believe a selection of them is to be found in the 'Publications of the Officers of Harvard University' issued five or six years ago. My copy was burned in a fire which consumed most of my effects two years ago." Gould received the degree of A.M. from Olivet College in 1884.

GEORGE HUNTINGTON GOULD. In sending my notice to Gould, I threatened to go to Santa Barbara to see what the trouble was if he didn't respond, which he did, as follows: "Your pleasant little foot-note stuck on to the printed notice has decided me. I shall not write any response. The room is ready for your promised visit. Besides, my honors and offices, with dates, would be simply confusing from the abundance of mathematics. Besides, such items are valuable only in a death notice and to read one's obituary is tedious work. Also the former notice is correct." Gould resides in Santa Barbara, and is practising law there, I believe, besides being largely interested in real estate.

EDWARD GRAY. Is in the cotton commission business in Boston. Resides at 42 Beacon Street.

SAMUEL ELIOT GUILD. Is a stock-broker in the firm of Charles Head & Co., Exchange Building, Boston.

Was married March 4, 1890, to Jessie Motley, daughter of Edward and Ellen Rodman Motley, of Boston. Helen Motley was born Jan. 11, 1891, and died May 27, 1893. A son, Samuel Eliot, Jr., was born Dec. 30, 1892. Resides 161 Beacon Street, Boston.

FRANK ROCKWOOD HALL. Continues to practise law in Boston at 113 Devonshire Street. Was married April 3, 1888, at Portland, Me., to Florence M. Macisaac, daughter of the late Donald Macisaac, Esq., of Glencoe, Scotland.

ROBERT SPRAGUE HALL. "Continued until after 1890 to sell books occasionally on commission. Did some private teaching a few months of every year; i.e. with single pupils a few hours a week. Went through a course in book-keeping, and when my health permitted resumed studying law. Was admitted to the Suffolk bar in June, 1887, and have since practised law, mostly by myself. In the fall of 1888 was the victim of a serious illness, which disabled me for some six months. In June and July, 1889, went across the Atlantic, and spent a little over three weeks in Paris and a little over a week in and about London. The Paris Exposition of that year received much of my attention. I lived in the Latin Quarter, among artists and students. During some years and up to the present time have been interested in the single tax movement. In 1893 took up the study of international law, and spent some six months at it. Have devoted much time to political economy and the money question. During the last five years have devoted much time to languages, mostly to French, but also to Italian, Russian, and German. Have translated into French two small volumes, one of which is awaiting the finishing touches before being offered to a publisher. Have kept up my musical studies, and have composed four long waltzes for the piano, one of which has been arranged for orchestra, and played in public. Was for a year a member of the Charlestown Improvement Association, an organization formed for promoting local interests, but left it on account of my deafness. For the last two years have been interested personally, and as counsel for several parties, in a snarl of law-suits whose mainspring has been family animosity, and whose most important wheel has been the perjury of a mother against her own son, that son now serving a sentence in the State Prison for a 'forgery' which was no forgery. Am still unmarried." Resides at 57 High Street, Charlestown, Mass.

ASA GUSTAVUS HAPGOOD. Left Fairchild Paper Company Jan. 1, 1890, since when has been in the paper business in New York, and is now of the firm of Etherington & Hapgood, wholesale paper dealers, Times Building.

FRANK HASBROUCK. Has continued to practise law in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Took a trip to Holland in the summer of 1888 with members of the Holland Society of New York, which was extended to Paris, the Rhine, and Cologne. Was Treasurer of the city of Poughkeepsie from Jan. 1, 1887, to Dec. 31, 1888. Has been vice-president and is trustee of the Holland Society of New York. Was president of the Apokeepsing Boat Club of New York. Is librarian of the Euterpe Glee Club; a member of the Reform Club of New York and of the Democratic Club of New York. Has contributed occasional historical papers on local history to local periodicals. Daughter Elsa was born Nov. 5, 1887.

*DAVID HEALD. Died Sept. 25, 1873. See Third Report, p. 20.

RALPH W. HICKOX. Have received no reply from him.

EDWIN NEWELL HILL. Writes as follows: "I now live in Boston, at 29 St. John Street, Jamaica Plain, where I have lived for seven years. I formed a (law) partnership with Godfrey Morse in 1891, with a place of business at 53 State Street. In April of this year a new partnership was formed by the addition of George Clarendon Hodges, of the class of 1879. A daughter was born Aug. 31, 1887, named Doris."

HENRY EVELETH HILL. Practising law in Worcester, Mass. Writes as follows: "I received your circular of the 30th of April, and did not respond to it because there is no material change in my condition since the last class report was issued. I have grown older and better, of course; and I am still clinging to my profession. Beyond a few matters of local importance, I have not attained any world-wide notoriety; but I suppose it is because I have not engaged in that interesting pastime of politics, which interests so many. My family has not increased nor diminished. One little olive branch has thrived, and is now twelve years of age. Of that event — to wit, the birth — you were duly notified. A number of interesting cases of some local importance it has been my luck to have; but, as I say, my life has been very humdrum, and hardly worthy of mention. I have changed my business address, which is now in the Five Cent Savings Bank Building, as the old rookery which I occupied, and had occupied for years, is to be torn down to make way for a more modern building."

LEANDER HOLBROOK, JR. Continues the practice of law at Milford, Mass., where he resides.

ARTHUR HOLLAND. Removed to Pittsburg, Penn., at the end of 1888, and became a member of the firm of Naylor & Co. in 1889. June 15, 1893, was married in Pittsburg to Sara Ormsby Bergwin, daughter of Hill Bergwin and Mary Phillips Bergwin.

LUCIUS LEE HUBBARD. Writes as follows: "In November, 1886, finished my studies (mineralogy, geology, and chemistry, etc.) at Bonn, taking the degrees of A.M. and Ph.D., and went to Heidelberg, where I worked for several months under Rosenbusch. In March, 1887, I rejoined my family in Switzerland, and from there went to Italy, spending several weeks in the volcanic districts near Rome and Naples. Returned to this country in July, and spent the summer in Maine. Passed the winters of 1887–88 and 1888–89 in Boston, and returned to Cambridge in the summer of 1889, where my family still reside. In January, 1891, I came to Houghton, Mich., and became an assistant on the State Geological Survey, serving in that capacity until May 1, 1893, and for a year and a half gave instruction in mineralogy and in lithology in the Michigan Mining School. In July, 1893, was appointed State Geologist of Michigan. My headquarters are in Houghton, where a building has just been completed for the survey. Publications: (Guide-book and 'Woods and Lakes of Maine' previously reported). 'Beiträge zur Kentnisse der Noseanführenden Auswürflinge des Laacher Sees,' Tschermak's 'Mineralogisch-petrographischen Mittheilungen,' VIII. Bd., 5 Heft, 1887. 'On Powellite from a New Locality,' G. A. Koenig and L. L. Hubbard, A. J. S., Vol. XLVI., November, 1893. "Two new geological Cross-sections of Keweenaw Point," Proceedings Lake Superior Mining Institute, June, 1894. Have two children: (Francis Johnson, born at Bonn, Dec. 5, 1883, previously reported); Julia Lambard, Cambridge, July 5, 1892. A son, Lucius Lambard, died at Ludwigsburg, Würtemberg, Sept. 3, 1885."

PETER HULME. Is practising law in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where he resides. Was Chamberlain of the city of Poughkeepsie in 1889 and 1890. From Hasbrouck I learn that Hulme is an enthusiastic whist-player, a member of the team of the Amrita Club of Poughkeepsie, and was sent as a representative, and played on that team in Chicago in 1893, and at Philadelphia this year.

EDWARD WEBSTER HUTCHINS. Has continued to practise law as a member of the firm of Hutchins & Wheeler, Boston. His daughter Louise, born Nov. 20, 1881, died Dec. 23, 1887; and his second daughter Helen, born Feb. 8, 1884, died Dec. 29, 1887. He has now three children: a daughter Grace, born Aug. 19, 1885; a son Henry Clinton, born Jan. 19, 1889; and a son Edward, born Aug. 10, 1890. He resides at 113 Marlboro Street, Boston.

MARCELLO HUTCHINSON. Until Oct. 1, 1890, was First Assistant Physician at the Taunton Lunatic Hospital. On the above date assumed the position as Superintendent of the Massachusetts Hospital for Dipsomaniacs and Inebriates at Foxboro, Mass.; superintended the planning and erection of the buildings, which were opened for the reception and care of patients on Feb. 6, 1893. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society. Was married June 8, 1893, at the Prospect House, Mt. Holyoke, South Hadley, Mass., to Annie P. Palmer, daughter of Daniel W. Palmer and Phebe N. (Abbott) Palmer. Resides at Foxboro, Mass.

MERTON SPENCER KEITH. Left Mr. Noble's school in 1886, and has since been engaged as private tutor, mostly in the preparation of young men for Harvard College. Is a member of the Massachusetts Reform Club, and resides at Quincy, Mass.

*WILLIAM WALLACE KELMAN. Died Jan. 16, 1877. See Third Report, p. 22.

CAMILLUS GEORGE KIDDER. Writes as follows: "Have continued the practice of law at the same address (34 Nassau Street, New York City). In 1891 entered into copartnership with John Stevens Melcher of the class of '81, and have kept my nose pretty steadily at the grindstone ever since the last report. Have been deeply engaged in an effort to liquidate the affairs of a moribund Western mortgage guarantee company, which effort has been fairly successful. No degrees or honors. From 1890 to 1893 was a School Commissioner in Orange, N.J. Have continued to belong to most of the Rabelaisian list of societies mentioned in the last report, and am also a member of the Church Club of New York, and the Down Town Association, Insurance Club, Reform Club, and Bar Association. Have written nothing except an occasional essay for some local society or a campaign article. A son, George Heinrich Faber, was born Oct. 11, 1888. Reside at 76 Highland Avenue, Orange, N.J."

CHARLES RICHARD LAWRENCE. Continued as cashier of the Bunker Hill National Bank until January, 1890, when he was elected President of the same association. Is also a trustee of the Warren Institution for Savings, Charlestown. Resides on Tappan Street, Brookline.

LEWIS CASS LEDYARD. Has not replied to the circular. He is practising law at 54 Wall Street, in partnership with Hon. James C. Carter. Is also a director in the Boston & Maine Railroad.

ALBERT LAMB LINCOLN, JR. Has continued the practice of law in Boston. In March, 1886, was chosen one of the selectmen of Brookline, and was subsequently re-elected in 1887, '88, '89, '90, '91, and '92, and for the last five of those years was Chairman of the Board. Has resigned his position as Special Justice of the Brookline Police Court. A son, Albert Lamb, third, was born Jan. 29, 1892. Resides in Brookline.

ARTHUR LORD. Writes as follows: "Since last report have been engaged in practice of law in Plymouth and Boston, and now have no other office than at 53 State Street, Boston. In 1885 was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee in Legislature, and after adjournment Chairman of Committee on Revision of the Judiciary System in Massachusetts. Am one of the Civil Service Commissioners, Chairman of Board of Selectmen, Member of Council of Massachusetts Historical Society, Trustee of Pilgrim Society, etc. Written no book, but have published some magazine articles and speeches. Married October, 1878, to Sarah Shippen, daughter of Rush R. and Zoe (Rodman) Shippen. Have six children: Katharine Lord, born in 1880; Henry Shippen, born in 1883; Margaret Cheney, born in 1886; Frances, born in 1888; Elizabeth Evans, born in 1890; and John Hayes, born in 1892. Reside at Plymouth, Mass." In 1889 Lord made an argument before the legislative committee on Women's Suffrage, in behalf of the remonstrants against municipal suffrage for women, a printed copy of which the Secretary afterwards received.

WILLIAM BRICEN LORD. Is practising law in Washington, D.C., where he resides.

WILLIAM CALEB LORING. Has continued the practice of law in the firm of Ropes, Gray & Loring, Boston. Travelled abroad in 1886 and 1892. Resides at Beverly Farms and 20 Hereford Street, Boston.

ERNEST PARKER MILLER. Continues the practice of medicine in Fitchburg, Mass. Travelled in Europe in 1888. Has been Examining Surgeon for Pensions from 1883 to 1893, and Medical Examiner from 1877 to 1891. Is Visiting Physician to the Burbank Hospital, having been appointed this year. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society. The following children have been born since the last report: Elsie L., April 10, 1886; Ernest P., Jan. 28, 1890; and Wyman R., July 23, 1892.

ARTHUR MILLS. Is General Traffic Manager of the Boston & Albany Railroad. Is a member of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. A daughter, Anna Dwight, was born Sept. 8, 1886. Went abroad in the summer of 1885, and now resides in Brookline.

RUSSELL WORTLEY MONTAGUE. Writes as follows: "I am very sorry to have seemed to neglect your circular of April 30. I have been away from home; and the circular has been pursuing me about the country, and has only just been successful in overtaking me. I am also very sorry that my life is so commonplace that it can hardly have any interest to any one except myself. I am not a member of Congress. I have not written any books. In fact, I have not done any particular good; but, on the other hand, I can conscientiously say that I have done very little harm, for which last I hope to be duly credited. I was in Boston one day last month,— but only one day. I am still living in West Virginia at White Sulphur Springs. This is my permanent post-office address. As farming is neither a very absorbing nor profitable occupation, I have been interested for a number of years in the development of the mineral resources of West Virginia, particularly coal, iron, and manganese."

HENRY AUGUSTUS MUHLENBERG. He was with us at our annual dinner in 1892, but I have not heard from him since. He is practising law in Reading, Penn., where he resides.

* CHARLES McILVAINE NICHOLSON. Was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 19, 1850. His father was the Rev. W. R. Nicholson, who showed very early in life an inclination for the ministry, "preaching his first sermon when he was fourteen years old." He was first a Methodist minister, but afterwards entered the Protestant Episcopal Church, and was successively settled in New Orleans, Cincinnati, where he founded St. John's, at St. Paul's, Boston, and then rector of Trinity, at Newark, N.J.

Nicholson's mother was Jane Shaw, daughter of Franklin Shaw, a prominent merchant of New Orleans; and to her he owed his early education. He entered the Boston Latin School when ten years old, but found it finally so disagreeable, on account of the fancied injustice of the principal to his class, that he persuaded his father to take him away; and he entered the Institute of Technology in 1867, "having then no idea of entering any profession."

In the spring of 1868 he happened to hear a sermon of the Rev. Mr. Parvin, of Philadelphia, which decided him to study for the ministry; and with this in view he left the Institute, rejoined his former Latin School class, and entered college with his former classmates.

He chummed with G. H. Tower the first two years of the course, and afterwards roomed alone, "generally avoiding society at large,"—a course which he afterwards regarded as a mistake.

He was among the first ten chosen to the Everett Athenæum, and was a member of St. Paul's and the Christian Brethren.

He remained constant in his purpose to study for the ministry, though he evidently had a great many conflicts in his own mind on the subject, and ends his biography looking forward to the ministry "as a very happy and useful future." For three years after graduation he studied at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, receiving the degree of B.D. in June, 1875. He then accepted a call as assistant at Christ Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., where he remained for several years. In 1876 he was married to Gertrude Nickerson at Boston.

He was for some time rector of the Episcopal church in Sodus, N.Y., and afterwards, and at the time of his death, rector of the church at Wood's Holl, Mass., where he died after a painful illness, Oct. 16, 1885, leaving a widow and two children; Charles McIlvaine, Jr., born April 20, 1878, and Isabel, born July 6, 1880.

At our Commencement meeting June 30, 1886, his death was reported to the class; and Kidder, who had seen considerable of Nicholson at Wood's Holl, told of his brave struggle for life against the disease which was overpowering him, and of the circumstances in which his family were left. Appropriate action was taken by the class.

JOSEPH WISWELL PALMER. Is practising dentistry in Fitchburg. In 1891 received a post-graduate degree from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery. During the past winter made a pleasure trip to Cuba.

LOUIS HENRY PARKHURST. From 1884 to 1892 was engaged in the piano business. In June, 1892, became a member of the firm of Putnam, Bowen & Co., bankers, at 60 State Street, Boston, where he now is. His son, Carroll Field, born Jan. 5, 1880, died Nov. 21, 1886. Resides in Boston.

CHARLES FITZ POUSLAND. Is still with the Revere Sugar Refinery at East Cambridge, Mass. Has been on the Board of Health, and one of the Overseers of the Poor of Salem, and taken more or less interest in municipal affairs. A son, Charles Felton, was born Aug. 24, 1886. Resides in Salem.

*ALFRED RAND. Died May 9, 1877. See Third Report, p. 26.

JOSEPH RAWSON, JR. Has continued in the pork-packing business since graduation. In August, 1893, was elected vice-president of the First National Bank of Cincinnati. Resides in Clifton, Cincinnati.

*JAMES PAGE RICHARDSON. Died Sept. 8, 1872. See Third Report, p. 28.

JOHN FRANKLIN RICHARDSON. Is with the Union Bank of Redlands, Cal., where he resides. At the date of the last report he was in the United States Customs Service at St. Albans, Vt. In 1885 he left the service on account of Mrs. Richardson's health, and went to the Adirondacks for two years, and since 1887 has been living in Redlands, where he has a small orange ranch. A son, John Franklin, Jr., was born July 13, 1892.

LAURENCE DANA RUMSEY. Is now in Paris, France. Has not before been heard from directly since 1878. His children born since then are: Charles Carey, 1879; Gertrude, 1881; Grace, 1883; and Laurence, 1885.

CHARLES HOWLAND RUSSELL. Has been actively engaged in the practice of the law since 1885 as a member of the firm of Jennings & Russell until Feb. 1, 1894, and since then as a member of the firm of Stetson, Tracy, Jennings & Russell. Has resided during all of this period and practised in the city of New York. Visited Europe in 1886 and 1890, and Mexico in April, 1889. Was treasurer of the Harvard Club of New York City from 1888 to 1893. Is a director in the National Bank of Commerce, a trustee of St. Luke's Hospital, of the Astor Library, and of the New York Historical Society, a member of the Council of the University Club, and of the Committee on Admissions of the Bar Association, and a member of various societies. May 7, 1890, at St. George's Church, in the city of New York, was married to Jane Brinsmade Potter, daughter of Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, Bishop of New York, and Eliza Jacobs Potter. He has two sons: Charles Howland, Jr., born Sept. 18, 1891; and Henry Potter, born May 9, 1893. Resides at 129 East 34th Street, New York City.

EDWARD BALDWIN RUSSELL. Has made two foreign tours since last report, neither of which he thinks are of public interest, except perhaps a tour of Devonshire and Northern Cornwall in the saddle. During the year 1892 he spent some months exploring his native country, and crossed this continent four times, journeying along the Pacific Coast from San Diego to Vancouver. In his second trip he was so impressed with the natural beauties of Arizona and New Mexico that he wrote some letters to the Transcript (Boston), descriptive of the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, the Petrified Forest, Acoma, etc., which were published in the spring of 1893. He continues a partner in the firm of Edward Russell & Co., the Mercantile Agency. Resides at Boston, Mass.

* ROBERT SHAW RUSSELL. Was born at West Roxbury, Mass., June 10, 1850. He was the son of George R. Russell, an early and well-known Abolitionist, and Sarah (Shaw) Russell, daughter of Robert G. Shaw. He attended the military school at Sing-Sing for three years, from 1863 to 1866, with the intention of fitting for West Point, but, as he says in his short account in our Class Book, "the Rebellion having been quieted, gave up the idea of West Point, and fitted for Harvard at the school of Epes Sargent Dixwell." He was devoted to boating in our Freshman and Sophomore years, and was stroke of our Freshman crew which beat the Yale Freshman crew July 23, 1869, in the best time on record up to that date. He was a member of the Institute of 1770, of the Hasty Pudding Club, and some others of the college clubs, and chummed with Weld all through the course. He was our third marshal, and, with his great fund of good humor and his frank, hearty nature, did more, perhaps, than any other one man to create a class feeling in our naturally unenthusiastic class. He left college with the intention of going at once into business, and was a clerk with Wm. Perkins & Co., Boston, till October, 1874. He then travelled in Europe, India, China, Japan, California, and Cuba till the spring of 1876, when he became connected with the Washington Mills at Lawrence, Mass. He subsequently entered the Dexter Woollen Mills, and was the Treasurer of this corporation at the time of his death, and for many years previously. He was also in the dry-goods commission business with the house of S. P. Dexter & Co., Boston. He was married May 28, 1884, to Margaret, daughter of Charles P. Curtis, of Boston, who survives him. He died suddenly in Dexter, Me., the 21st of September, 1887. Shortly after his death the following memorial appeared in the Daily Evening Transcript of Boston. I have no means of learning the author's name, but he must have been intimately acquainted with Russell; and the memorial so truly portrays his character that I have thought it fitting to give it a place in our Class Report.

ROBERT SHAW RUSSELL.

Seldom is it the happy lot of any man in time of peace to meet his death in the very manner that would suit him best, had he the power to choose. Many a hero has in battle died with his face to the foe, gloriously fighting for some principle for which he was ready to sacrifice his life; and all such must have been happy in death, stricken down instantly by a mortal wound with no lingering pain, and without the saddening influences of the tear-stained and sorrowing faces of their best beloved about them. In the less notorious although none the less bitter battles of every-day life which are being waged all around us there are heroes daily fighting and expending their youth, strength, energy, and all that they have to give in their efforts to sus-tain some good or useful end, or for the strict performance of what they believe to be a duty; and these men are all the more heroic because usually they fight and conquer, or fall alone, with no armies to back them, no martial sounds to inspire them, and no comrades to share their dangers.

Such a hero was Robert Shaw Russell; and his end was glorious, inasmuch as he died with both hands on the plough, and when, in spite of the malady which he knew better than any one else was straining at his heart strings, he was not to be turned back from his determination to sustain his ideas of what he believed his duty to be even unto the end, when a weaker soul under like circumstances would have faltered and given his charge over to others. His death was eminently characteristic of the man; and, could he have chosen, we may safely say he would not have had it otherwise.

To those who knew him best his loss will be keenest felt; for none, no matter in what rank of life, could know him without appreciating more fully, as their acquaintance became more intimate, his strong manly qualities, his perfect honesty, his thorough contempt of everything that savored in the least of fraud or meanness, his chivalric regard for the weak or aged, his intrepid courage, and his intense conscientiousness. His power of adapting himself to all classes and kinds of men, no matter who they might be nor in what part of the world he met them, was little short of wonderful; and those of his friends who had ever travelled with him anywhere had always especially noticed this unusual talent. As a natural consequence, warm friends and devoted admirers were to be found everywhere in all ranks and conditions of life; and, what was the more remarkable, they would mostly be followers, as he was always at once recognized as a leader by those with whom he was thrown, his strength of character and great self-reliance being so appreciated that, without the least exhibition of self-assertion or arrogance, his proposals and his plans were the ones that were followed, and his counsels always prevailed. He has gone, and he has left an irreparable void in his domestic, his social, and his business circles; but the memory of him and his example will last as long as the last of his friends can remember anything. And, when emergencies occur, what he would have said or what he would have done under like circumstances will be the uppermost thought with many, who knew by experience that his decisions were almost always right. G.

At our Commencement meeting June 27, 1888, the death of Russell was reported to the class, and the following resolution was passed: —

Resolved, That the class of 1872 wish to record their sense of loss in the death of Robert Shaw Russell. He was in college and in after-life a man strong in mind and in body, who had convictions and had the courage to carry them into effect. plucky in undertaking what to others might seem a forlorn hope, indefatigable in carrying on anything which he had taken in hand, singularly self-reliant and independent of what others thought or did not think of his course of action, and yet one who found in all men and in all classes of men, no matter how widely separated they were in feelings, education, and in thought, a touch of nature to which he was no stranger. He loved his class, and his classmates in turn looked to him as to a real friend whose death has brought to each and all of them a sense of personal loss.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the class records, and that a copy of them be sent by the Secretary to his family as a mark of our sympathy.

FRANK HALLER SAWYER. Has continued as city editor of the Evening Bulletin, San Francisco, since 1886, where he resides.

* PIERRE CLARK SEVERANCE. Was born at Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 16, 1849; and in 1854 his family moved to Roxbury, Mass., and afterwards to Newton, where he attended Mr. Allen's school for boys. In his biography in the Class Book, he says he had never intended to go to college, but was persuaded to go by his brother (in the class of 1869) and his schoolmates at Newton. He chummed with A. Lord the first two years of the course, and with Hubbard the last two. He was a member of the Δ. K. E., the Institute of 1770, of the A. D., Hasty Pudding Club, the O. K., an editor of the Advocate, received a detur at the end of the Freshman year, and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He held various offices in these clubs. He was also on our Freshman nine, and president of the Freshman Ball Club. He also was interested in rowing, and was one of the second Junior crew which won the prize in the class races in 1871. The above list shows what a prominent position Severance held in the class, and he was furthermore the Chairman of our Class Committee. In October, 1872, he went into the window and plate glass business with Lambert Brothers, Boston, and in January, 1880, was admitted into the partnership. He was married May 9, 1883, at New Bedford to Isabel Morgan Rotch, daughter of William J. and Emily Morgan Rotch. A daughter, Emily Morgan, was born Oct. 11, 1884, and a son, William Rath, Oct. 17, 1886, both of whom were living at the date of his decease. For some little time before his death he was suffering from a severe mental shock which incapacitated him for business, and from which he never recovered. He died April 20, 1890. His death was reported at the Commencement meeting following, and by vote of the class a letter of sympathy was sent by the Secretary to his widow.

EDWARD STEVENS SHELDON. Was reappointed as Assistant Professor of Romance Philology in the college in 1889, and elected Professor of the same in 1894. Has been secretary of the American Dialect Society from its beginning to the end of 1893, and is now president of the same society. His publications have been as follows: 1. "Some Specimens of a Canadian French Dialect spoken in Maine," Transactions and Proceedings of the Modern Language Association of America, vol. iii. pp. 210–218, Baltimore, 1888; 2. Revised the etymologies of "Webster's International Dictionary," Springfield, Mass., 1890; 3. "A New Englander's English and the English of London," Dialect Notes, ii. pp. 33–42, Boston, 1890 (published by the American Dialect Society); 4. "The Origin of the English Names of the Letters of the Alphabet" (Harvard), Studies and Notes in Philology and Literature, i. pp. 66–87, Boston, 1892; "Ethnological Notes," Ibid., i. pp. 118–124, Boston, 1892; 5. "Further Notes on the Names of the Letters," Ibid., ii. pp. 155–171, Boston, 1893; 6. "What is a Dialect?" Dialect Notes (published by the American Dialect Society), vi. pp. 286–297, Boston, 1893; several articles in the revised edition of Johnson's "Universal Cyclopædia," now appearing, the most important thus far are: Basques, French Language, Helian Language, Italian Literature (New York, 1893–94). Also a number of contributions to Modern Language Notes (Baltimore) and one or two other periodicals (book reviews, etc.), and articles in Dialect Notes as secretary or editor. The secretary is ex officio one of the editors of that publication. For the complete list up to Sept. 30, 1892, see the Lists of the Publications of Harvard University and its Officers in the Bibliographical Contributions of the Library, Nos. 12, 21, etc. A daughter, Mary Hinckley, was born Nov. 27, 1890. Resides at 27 Hurlbut Street, Cambridge.

EDWARD CHILD SHERBURNE. Writes as follows: "Since the last report in 1885, I have continued in the glass-importing business, with the pleasures and cares incidental to an active business life, and a good part of the time have felt that the cares more than balanced the pleasures. In January, 1893, the firm of R. Sherburne, with which I have been connected for the past sixteen years, was consolidated with two other importing houses, forming a corporation styled the Boston Plate and Window Glass Company, of which I became a stockholder and director, and continue so up to the present time. Until April, 1893, I resided in Boston. Since then I have lived at 29 Concord Avenue, Cambridge, getting closer to the Alma Mater, as I have a boy who is looking forward to the four years' connection with her. From June to November, 1888, I spent the time in Northern Europe, fully half of it in Norway and Sweden, with the balance in Russia, Denmark, and Holland. Last year I had the pleasure of spending from July to December in bed, undergoing in that time two surgical operations. Now, as far as I know, am as well as when I graduated."

HENRY ST. JOHN SMITH. In July, 1885, became a member of the firm of Swan & Bassett, bankers, Portland, Maine, of which he is still a member. A second daughter, Helen, was born May 25, 1888, and a son, Henry St. John, Jr., June 2, 1891. Resides most of the year at Cape Elizabeth, near Portland.

* PHILIP SIDNEY STONE. Was born Jan. 29, 1852, at Bayridge, a suburb of Brooklyn, N.Y. He was the son of John Seely Stone, a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal church, and for the last years of his life Dean of the Protestant Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, and of Mary Kent, the second daughter of Hon. James Kent, Chancellor of New York State and author of "Kent's Commentaries." When a year old, his family moved to Brookline, Mass., where they resided for nine years; and his education began in the public schools of that town. His family then moved to Philadelphia, where they resided until September, 1867, when they moved to Cambridge, where he resided up to the time of his death. He was a member of the Institute of 1770, of the Harvard Glee Glub, and of the Psi U. He shared a room with Brooks. In the fall after graduation he entered the Harvard Law School, where he remained till December, 1873, when he entered the office of Morse, Stone & Greenough, Boston, as a student, and was admitted to the bar July 23, 1875. He practised law in Boston, a part of the time with the firm of Bryant & Sweetser, until June, 1882, when he entered the employ of the American Bell Telephone Company, as Secretary to the President and Executive Committee of the Directors, a position he continued to hold until his death. He was married Oct. 17, 1882, in Boston, to Anna Blake, daughter of Samuel Leonard Abbot, M.D., and Eliza J. Abbot, who survives him with a son, James Kent, born March 23, 1886, and a daughter, Sibyl Kent, born October 18, 1889. At our Commencement meeting, June 25, 1890, word was brought that Stone was dangerously ill with pneumonia, a sudden attack, but that he was slightly better. Before the day was over he had passed away. Stone possessed one of those sunny, bright natures which always keep a man young, and a high, moral character, incapable of committing a wrong. He was always on good terms with all who knew him, and it was impossible for him voluntarily to give offence. Such traits as these naturally endeared him to his class; and, while, from his living at home during his college course, we saw less of him than we otherwise might, no one could do otherwise than think and speak well of him. The Secretary, with the advice of the Class Committee, sent a floral wreath to the funeral in behalf of the class. At the Commencement meeting in 1891 the Secretary was instructed to convey to Mrs. Stone and her children an expression of the esteem in which Stone was held by the class, and to tender them our sympathy in their loss, which was done.

RALPH STONE. Has continued the practice of the law in Buffalo. In April, 1888, was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Superior Court of Buffalo, which position he held till Jan. 1, 1892. Is a member of the Buffalo Club, of the Cleveland Democracy, of the Civil Service Reform League, and of some other societies. Has three children: Ralph Townsend, born March 13, 1886; John Haven Pugh, born March 5, 1889; and Lawrence Pugh, born Sept. 25, 1892. A son, Woodbury Langdon, born Sept. 8, 1890, died Jan. 28, 1893. Resides at 83 Prospect Avenue, Buffalo, N.Y.

HERMAN FOSTER STRAW. Has been in the employ of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company since graduation, and has had charge of all their mills and business since 1885. Was married Sept. 18, 1873, to Mary Onslow Parker, daughter of William M. and Susan Z. Parker. Has three children: Parker, born June 18, 1878; Harry Ellis, born April 25, 1883; Herman F., Jr., born March 12, 1894. Resides in Manchester, N.H.

JEREMIAH JOSEPH SULLIVAN. Has continued to practise law in Watertown and Boston. Was Chairman of the Board of Health of Watertown in 1886, and has been selectman of the town, but has retired from politics, not finding the work congenial. Resides in Watertown.

CHARLES SOLON THORNTON. Has continued to practise law in Chicago, at present in the firm of Thornton & Chancellor. Was attorney for the town of Lake, then numbering about one hundred thousand, now a part of Chicago. President of the Auburn Park Board of Education. Auburn Park was one of the suburbs of Chicago. It is now a part of this city. Member of the Board of Education of Cook County, also member of the Board of Education of Chicago. Sept. 11, 1883, was married to Jessie Fremont, daughter of Francis and Esther A. Benton. Has three daughters: Mabel Jessie, Pearl Esther, Hattie May. Resides at corner 76th Street and Stewart Avenue, Auburn Park, Chicago, Ill.

GEORGE HORTON TILDEN. Returned from Japan in 1893, and was present with the class at our annual dinner. Soon after he returned to Japan, where he is at present residing.

CHARLES HENRY TITUS. Has been engaged in the real estate business in Providence for the past eight years. His wife, Mary Eliza (Drown), died Sept. 26, 1886. After her death he moved from Warren to Providence, where he at present resides.

FLOYD WILLIAMS TOMKINS. Writes as follows: "Continued in the ministry of the Episcopal Church. Have been four years Rector of Christ Church, Hartford, Conn., three years Rector of St. James Church, Chicago, and June 1, 1894, assume the Rectorship of Grace Church, Providence. Travelled in 1892, through England, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Austria, and Switzerland. Am a member of the Chicago Literary Club, Chicago Civic Federation, Chicago Harvard Club, Chicago Church Club, and Chicago Board of Trustees of several institutions. Written sundry lectures, sermons, and papers, Hartford and New York. Have four children: Sarah Graham, 1877; Anne Maria Cutter, 1879; Floyd Williams, 1887, and Mary Jeannette Kenny, 1890. Reside at Providence, R.I."

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER, JR. Have not heard directly from Tower. Tyler wrote me June 13 that he had either started or was about to start for Santa Barbara, Cal. He has offices at 228 South 7th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

*GEORGE HOMER TOWER. Died April 15, 1878. See Fourth Report, p. 23.

EUGENE TREADWELL. Continues the practice of law in New York, at 62 Wall Street.

ALANSON TUCKER. Have not heard directly from Tucker, but am told that he has retired from the dry-goods and commission business, in which he was engaged.

JOHN FREEMAN TUFTS. Writes: "In June, 1888, resigned my position as Principal of the Collegiate Academy. The following year was spent in rest and study. For several months I was at Harvard, engaged in special work in History and Economic Sciences. In June, 1889, I accepted the Chair of History and Political Economy in Acadia College, where I have been since, and expect to end my days in the work which is most agreeable to me. Have written several lectures, but have published nothing. A daughter, Enid Yolande, was born March 25, 1890. Reside on College Street, Wolfville, N.S."

SIDNEY FREDERIC TYLER. "Was elected President and Director of the Fourth Street National Bank of Philadelphia, Oct. 1, 1886, and have since that date given most of my time to management of that institution. Was President and Receiver of Shenandoah Valley Railroad Company, and Director in Western National Bank of New York, and Security Trust and United Security Trust Companies of this city. Was married March 8, 1888, to Ida A. Elkins, daughter of William L. Elkins and Maria Louisa Broomall." Resides in Philadelphia.

EDWARD EMERSON WATERS. Have received no reply from him.

THOMAS FRANKLIN WATERS. Has continued as pastor of South Church, Ipswich. In 1892 made a short tour in Europe. Published in 1893 "Historical Sketch of the Essex South and Salem Association of Congregational Ministers from 1800 to 1893." A son, George Franklin, was born Feb. 15, 1887. Resides in Ipswich.

* CHARLES MILTON WEED. Died April 27, 1875. See Third Report, p. 36.

* FRANCIS MINOT WELD, JR. Died March 18, 1882. See Fifth Report, p. 26.

GEORGE WEBB WEST. Has not replied to the Secretary's circular. He continues to reside in Boston; at Chestnut Hill during the summer.

FRANK SUMNER WHEELER. Has not replied to the circular. He was married Oct. 9, 1890, at Chicago, to Emma Hambleton; is now residing in Keene, N.H.

MOSES PERKINS WHITE. Continues the practice of law in Boston. Writes as follows: "I had a good vacation of four months in 1885, which I spent in England, Switzerland, and France. A son, Wattson White, was born Jan. 3, 1888. Reside at 1 Highland Street, Cambridge, Mass."

* FRANCIS EUGENE WHITNEY. Died Nov. 24, 1873. See Third Report, p. 38.

CHARLES AMORY WILLIAMS. Has continued to practise law in Boston, and since the last report has been of counsel for the town of Brookline. A son, Charles Amory, Jr., was born Dec. 19, 1891; and a daughter, Eleanor Winslow, was born Aug. 15, 1893. His son, Stanley Winslow has died. Resides in Brookline.

* WILLIAM ADAMS WINN. Was born at West Cambridge (now Arlington), Dec. 1, 1848, and was the son of Albert and Sarah Prentiss Winn. He attended the public schools until 1864, when he entered the Cotting High School in West Cambridge, where he fitted for college. He was a member of the Everett Athenæum, of the Pi Eta, of which he was treasurer, and of Phi Beta Kappa. In his life in the Class Book he records the fact that he was not absent from a single recitation or lecture during the entire course. This was characteristic of Winn, and is only an evidence of that strict devotion to duty which was always his prominent trait. No man in the class was more respected for his mental ability and high character. He received a detur at the end of Freshman year, and always stood very near, if not at the head of the class in scholarship, and graduated with the highest honors. After graduation he entered the Harvard Medical School. In February, 1874, he received an appointment as Surgeon's Assistant at the United States Marine Hospital, Chelsea, where he remained a year. From April 1 to July 1, 1875, he was House Physician at the Boston Lying-in Hospital. From Aug. 1, 1875, to Aug. 1, 1876, was House Pupil at the Massachusetts General Hospital. He received the degree of M.D. in June, 1876, and in November following began practice in Cambridge, removing to Arlington in April, 1877, where he continued to practise his profession until his death. He was a Fellow of the Massachusetts Medical Society. He was married at Arlington, April 12, 1877, to Mary Louise Allen, our classmate, T. F. Waters, officiating. He served many years as Chairman of the School Committee of Arlington, succeeding Judge Carpenter in that office, and won the highest praise for his work in this position. A few years before his death Winn received an injury to one of his hands, which resulted in blood-poisoning and the loss of a portion of one thumb. Soon after he had a serious attack of pneumonia, and for some time before his final attack had been in poor health. He died Jan. 19, 1890, from a third attack of pneumonia, developing into quick consumption. Our classmate, Rev. Thomas F. Waters, attended the funeral, and spoke of Winn as follows: —

"Twenty-one years ago the dear friend who now lies so still before us and myself met for the first time on the campus at Harvard College, and the acquaintance and the close friendship growing out of it has never been broken until death came to separate us. We shared the same room, we were together at our meals, in company we tramped through the streets and over these hills through the four years of our college course; and we came to be very near and dear to each other. In those days he gave promise of a manhood full of breadth and strength. He took high rank in his studies, but in mathematics he was phenomenal. What the rest of us toiled after and grasped with difficulty, if at all, he accomplished as if it was a pastime. If he was less proficient in other directions, his untiring perseverance and conscientious refusal to use helps kept him in the front rank of his class. Whatever he did was well done, and at the end he stood first. As to what he was as a man among you all, who knew him so well, needs no words from me. He was one who had no thought for himself, but was ever thoughtful for others; and in his manner he was kindly, brotherly, and winsome. In his college days he was possessed of a fine physique, and the promise was for a long and vigorous life. Those intimate with him disliked to see him leave the science of mathematics, in which he must have excelled, to adopt the medical profession; but his choice was a noble one, and made with a high and noble purpose. With characteristic thoughtlessness of self, he sought experience in the hospitals, and there learned that the life-work he had chosen was to be pursued under difficulties, but that did not cool his ardor. After a brief experience in a neighboring city he came to his boyhood's home to establish himself; and the result is a reversal of the familiar maxim, 'A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and among his own kindred.' And, had he been permitted a full measure of health, he certainly would have attained a high place in his profession; but sickness has come frequently to him, disappointing his hopes and thwarting his ambitions. Still, his failure marred not his manhood, nor soiled his genial disposition; and, if he has failed of a long life, he has gained renown among you as a man who could face death and not fear it as he pursued the path of duty. He never had anything to say of himself to those who noted his failing strength in these later years, and it can be truly said that his patient endurance of his burdens in life has been heroic."

Speaking of his home life, Waters said: —

"We know full well his devotion to his invalid wife, how truly he has been the joy and light of his quiet home, a rich portion, a benediction. And in that other home, where he was the affectionate son, the kind brother, the ever-ready helper, how a remembrance of his natural traits will be a solace and a comfort while life lasts!"

Alluding to his connection with the Arlington schools, he said: —

"You know how it has been almost a passion with him, his devotion to your public schools and their interests, and to the cause of education. To the teachers he was a wise counsellor and helper, to the children a warm-hearted friend, and his name will not be lost; for one who was every inch a man has gone out from among you. He was an honest man who worked for worthy and noble ends, and kept himself unspotted from the world.

"Dr. Winn's love of flowers was something beautiful. His botany is marked all over with notes and memoranda where rare specimens might be found; and most of you know of the care bestowed on the grounds about his home.

"As we stand here to-day, it is not for us to say that his life was not well rounded out, though a score of years only has passed since he began his life-work. Though he has been refused a longer and larger place here, we know he was faithful and true, and that therefore there is for him in the endless hereafter a place where all that was true and noble in him shall encounter no such limitations, and the desires of his noble neart shall have full scope."

His death was reported at the Commencement meeting June 25, 1890; and, in accordance with the vote of the class, a letter of sympathy was sent to his widow by the Secretary.

LOUIS AUGUSTUS WYMAN. Was elected Treasurer of the Wright & Potter Printing Company (State Printers of Massachusetts) in 1888, which position he still holds. Elected member of the School Committee in Lynn, 1892, for three years. Has been Secretary, Master Printers' Club of Boston since 1891. A son, Arthur Merriam Wyman, was born May 16, 1887; and another son, Arnold Maverick Wyman, was born Jan. 22, 1889. Resides at No. 36 Tudor Street, Lynn, Mass.

JAMES HOLDEN YOUNG. Has continued the practice of law in the firm of Hutchins & Wheeler, Boston. Resides 108 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

* OTIS EVERETT ALLEN. Died June 8, 1872. See Third Report, p. 40.

JAMES M. ALLEN. Broker, representing the brokerage house of E. Q. Murdock, of New York. Married April 10, 1871, in Boston, Marietta Gardiner Cary, of Newburyport, daughter of James Cary and Sarah Searles Cary. A daughter, Marietta Cary Allen, was born in Lisbon, Portugal, April 19, 1872, died March 25, 1875, in Boston. The following four children were born in Boston: James Morse, Jr., born Jan. 14, 1874; Greta, born May 16, 1881; Sallie, born Sept. 23, 1883; and Gardiner, born July 20, 1886. Resides at 34 Wales Street, Dorchester District, Boston, Mass.

* LOWELL DOUGLAS ALLEN. Died suddenly Dec. 23, 1891. At the time of his decease he was a sketch-maker in the Manchester (N.H.) print works. He was graduated in the class of 1873, and was only connected with us for a short time.

WILLIAM APPLETON. Was married in 1879 to Elizabeth C. Hammond, who died in 1880, leaving a boy, William, born Oct. 23, 1879. Was married April 29, 1886, to Nina H. Hargous. A daughter, S. J. Appleton, is about a year and a half old. Resides at 74 Beacon Street, Boston.

* GEORGE LOWELL AUSTIN. Was born at Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 11, 1849. He left college at the close of the Junior year, 1871, and was married in November of the same year to Etta M. Perkins, of Cambridge, Mass. For one year from January, 1872, he edited the Folio, a Boston musical journal; then settled down in Cambridge with the intention of leading a purely literary life, but in 1875 began the study of medicine, and continued in special practice until September, 1882, when he became associated with the publishing house of Lee & Shepard, where he remained until 1886, in charge of the literary matters of the house. He was a frequent contributor to the magazines and leading weeklies of the time. He was also the author of the following books: 1. Life of Franz Schubert, the Composer, 12mo, Boston, 1872; 2. "History of Massachusetts, from the Landing of the Pilgrims to the Present Time," 8vo, Boston, 1876; revised edition with addition, 8vo, Boston, 1884; 3. "Indispensable Handbook," 12mo, Boston, 1878; revised edition, 1884; 4. "The Radical Treatment of Hernia," Philadelphia, 1879; 5. "Perils of American Women," 12mo, Boston, 1882; 6. "Handbook of Water Analysis," 16mo, Boston, 1882; 7. "Henry Wadsworth Longfellow: His Life, his Work, his Friendships," illustrated, crown 8vo, Boston, 1883; 8. "Life and Time of Wendell Phillips," 12mo, Boston, 1884.

In August, 1887, he began to publish and edit an electrical journal called Practical Electricity. In 1890 he added another journal to his publication, called Electricity and Railroading, and published the two journals up to the time of his death. He died of pneumonia, June 5, 1893, at Melrose, where he had resided for many years, leaving a widow and four sons. Austin always continued to take a good deal of interest in the class, and was always welcome at our annual dinners, which he frequently attended.

At our last Commencement meeting, June 28, 1893, the following resolution was adopted: —

Resolved, That we have learned with sorrow of the death of our classmate, Dr. George Lowell Austin; that we here testify to his talents as an author, and his kind and tender nature as a friend; that the Secretary be requested to extend to his widow and family our deep sympathy for them in their bereavement, and forward to them a copy of this resolution.

* HERBERT CHOATE DARLING. Died Dec. 19, 1877. See Third Report, p. 42.

ROSWELL CUTTER DOWNER. Continues as the President of the Broadway National Bank, Boston.

WILLIAM W. FRENCH. Is practising law in Gloucester, and is Special Justice in the Police Court in Gloucester. Was mayor of Gloucester in 1888, 1889, and 1890, and city solicitor in 1891. Was married to Leila Fenno Shaw, daughter of Ellen M. and Moses Shaw, Jr.

* HENRY GREENOUGH, JR. Died April 10, 1880. See Fourth Report, p. 27.

ROBERT CHAMBLET HOOPER. Is Treasurer of Constitution Wharf Company. Has an office at 87 Milk Street, Boston. Acted as Treasurer of funds for the Soldiers' Field. He was married June 7, 1887, to Helen A., daughter of Fred L. Ames. Resides in Boston.

CHARLES HOWELL HOVEY. Have not heard from Hovey since the last report.

FRED WASHBURN KIRBY. Have not heard from him since the last report.

EDWARD LUTHER PARKS. Writes: "You may add to my account that I studied three years in Europe, one in Vienna and two in Paris, and travelled about somewhat. I was in Vienna the winter of 1877 and 1878. The next two winters in Paris." Is now in Boston.

FRANK STAPLES SHERBURNE. Writes: "Since last report was made I have been engaged in the Plate & Window Glass business, in partnership with my father and brother, E. C. S. In January, 1893, the partnership was dissolved; and two corporations styled the Boston Plate & Window Glass Company and the Boston Mirror Company were formed by a consolidation of our firm with Messrs. Hills, Turner & Co., and Lambert Brothers, both of Boston. I have been a Director and Treasurer of both companies since their incorporation. In 1891 with my wife and son I spent the four summer months in Europe travelling through Belgium, Holland, Germany, France, and England. In 1893 spent a short time in England recovering from la grippe. Am a member of the Boston Athletic Association, Algonquin Club, and the Commodore Club of Maine. Reside at 363 Marlboro Street, Boston."

WALTER ELIOT THWING. Writes: "Am bookkeeper with E. B. Townsend, successor to Thomas & Townsend, 79 State Street, Boston. Am still engaged on my history of the Livermore family. Reside at No. 65 Beech Glen Street, Roxbury, Mass."

CLASS SUBSCRIPTION FUND.

There has been collected by me for this Fund, including a small amount of interest, $4,199.05, which, with the exception of $18.35 spent for printing and postage, has all been paid over to the trustees of the Fund. I regret to have to add that there is an additional sum of $765 on the subscription list still unpaid, a part of which, however, has been lost by the death of the subscribers.

CLASS MEETINGS.

THE third annual dinner took place at Young's, June 23, 1885, thirty-four members being present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Almy, Altrocchi, Austin, Babbitt, J. F. Brown, W. Burgess, Cabot, Chase, Gibson, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Hapgood, E. N. Hill, Keith, Kidder, Lawrence, Lincoln, A. Lord, Miller, Montague, Palmer, Parkhurst, Pousland, Sheldon, F. S. Sherburne, E. C. Sherburne, P. S. Stone, Titus, Tomkins, White, Williams, and Wyman. The Dinner Committee consisted of Babbitt, C. H. Russell, Jr., and Parkhurst. The Secretary presided. Babbitt gave us a short poem printed below, and Kidder spoke for the class, Tomkins for the clergy, Lord for the legislature, Tufts and Altrocchi as members who were present for the first time, Austin for literature, and Gibson for the class baby. The question of discontinuing the annual dinner and putting the money into a fund for charitable purposes was discussed; and it was voted to refer the whole matter to the meeting of the class in 1886, when it was hoped that a much larger number would be present.

BABBITT'S POEM.—JUNE 23, 1885.

Good evening, Mugwumps! Same to you,
Democrats! Republicans, howdydo?
And likewise hail to you who stayed away
And didn't vote. Or etiam you who, alackaday!
Voted for Bifurcated Belva, or e'en Doughty Ben.
Or, better far,—not to include all men,—
Good evening, classmates! That's the Grand Old Party
That outlives all the rest, and waxes hearty
With the passing years, and doesn't need
Aught of official pap,—except this annual feed
Provided us by Brother Link, God bless him!
May Fortune never cease thus to caress him.

Our party platform's stood the honest test
Of all these years, and now comes out the best.
'Twas built by willing hands and joyous hearts,
Our youthful hopes entwining all its parts.
Four years of study and four years of fun
Were measured, and the welcome task was done.

We had some faults and errors to correct,—
Ad astra per aspera, or words to that effect.
Some kickers in our blessed ranks, alas!
Bolted the ticket, and joined another class.
Publics and privates cheered us on our way,
And those got cussed who didn't get up to pray.
We got our tossing Bloody Monday Night,
And once or twice some of us got — a headache.
Annuals and semi-annuals we struggled through,
Some with deserved success; and not a few
Tackled the printed questions so dummed well
That now they lock their printer in a cell.
How kind Old Father Time has been; for, lo!
He's washed our sins, and made 'em white as snow.

And, when at last arrived the festal day
To dedicate our work and hie away,
How proudly we our handiwork surveyed!
As in our prim and solemn garb arrayed,
On that bright, blissful day of leafy June,—
It seems but yesterday, so fleet it's flown!—
The wreaths of smiles from friends all near and dear,
The strains of music and the lusty cheer,
The orator's proud boast of our prowess,
The poet's lines of grace and tenderness,
The parting grasp of hands, the last farewell
Said to each lingering classmate there! Ah, well!
The scene has vanished, and another June
Finds us advanced almost to life's full noon.

How have we passed the morning of our life?
How fares each classmate in the earnest strife
For honor, fame, and riches,— and for grub?
For house rent, pew rent, and the wherewithal for bub
To go to college like his pa, and win the crib,
And emulate the style of Brother Gib?

All this and more you'll find in good condition
In Brother Link's "Lives of the Saints," revised edition.
Peruse the precious book, and after you've read through it
You'll know both how to and how not to do it.

Twelfth Annual Meeting, June 24, 1885.

Thayer 3. Kidder in the chair. The Secretary's Fifth Report, which had been circulated the previous evening at the annual dinner, was formally presented and accepted, together with the printed report of the class fund. Action was then taken upon the deaths of Frost and Horace Brown, and the meeting adjourned.

Thirteenth Annual Meeting, June 30, 1886.

Thayer 3. R. S. Russell in the chair. The Secretary read his reports of the last meeting and for the year, which were accepted. The death of Nickerson was reported; and, after remarks by Kidder and Beaman, resolutions were adopted. The death of Cutter was also reported, a memorial of his life was presented, and resolutions were adopted. The Secretary then brought up the matter of the dinner which the class had voted, in response to the circular sent out by the Secretary, to hold on the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the college, Nov. 6, 1886. A committee, consisting of R. S. Russell, Young, Babbitt, and the Secretary, was appointed, and the meeting adjourned.

The fourth annual dinner took place at Young's, Nov. 6, 1886, forty-six members of the class being present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Andrew, Appleton, Babbitt, Baker, Beaman, Burgess, Cabot, Elliot, Fiske, Gibson, Guild, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Hapgood, Hickox, Hill, Holland, Hulme, Hutchins, Keith, Kidder, Lawrence, Lincoln, Lord, Miller, Mills, Palmer, Parkhurst, Parks, Pousland, C. H. Russell, E. B. Russell, R. S. Russell, Sheldon, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, Smith, Stone, Tomkins, West, Wheeler, White, Wyman, Young. Kidder presided. Responses were made by Andrew, Babbitt, R. Stone, Beaman, Tomkins, and others, after which such singing as only the class of '72 could produce was indulged in, and the class separated in the best of spirits.

The fifth annual dinner took place at Young's, June 28, 1887, twenty-two members being present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Almy, Babbitt, W. Burgess, Gibson, F. R. Hall, R. S. Hall, Hapgood, E. N. Hill, Keith, Lincoln, Lord, Loring, Miller, Palmer, Parkhurst, E. B. Russell, Sheldon, Titus, White, Wyman, Young. The Secretary presided, and the occasion was enjoyed quietly and without formality.

Fifteenth Annual Meeting, June 29, 1887.

Thayer 3. Parkhurst in the chair. The Secretary read his reports of the last Commencement meeting, of the dinner of Nov. 6, 1886, and of the class funds, which were accepted, and the meeting adjourned.

The sixth annual dinner took place at Young's, June 26, 1888. Twenty-two members of the class were present.

Williams presided; and the Secretary, who was absent in the West, was informed that the occasion was very much enjoyed by those present.

Sixteenth Annual Meeting, June 27, 1888.

Thayer 3. Williams in the chair. Action was taken on the death of R. S. Russell, and the meeting adjourned.

The seventh annual dinner took place at Young's, June 25, 1889, twenty-three members being present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Almy, Austin, Babbitt, Gibson, F. R. Hall, Hapgood, E. N. Hill, Hubbard, Hutchins, Keith, Kidder, Lawrence, Lincoln, A. Lord, Pousland, E. B. Russell, Sheldon, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, Titus, White, and Wyman.

Seventeenth Annual Meeting, June 26, 1889.

Thayer 3. Kidder in the chair. The Secretary's reports were read and accepted; and the class then voted to add E. B. Russell to the Class Committee, and adjourned.

The eighth annual dinner took place at Young's, June 24, 1890. Twenty-four members were present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Austin, Babbitt, Beaman, W. Burgess, E. N. Hill, both Halls, Keith, Kidder, Lawrence, Lincoln, A. Lord, Loring, Pousland, E. B. Russell, Sheldon, both Sherburnes, Smith, Titus, Tomkins, White, and Wyman. The Secretary presided, and stated his regret that he had been unable to obtain the material for a satisfactory report. On motion of Lord it was voted that the publication of reports be left to the discretion of the Secretary. Sheldon gave the class his views on the proposed three years' university course; and the class separated about eleven o'clock, after what was voted to have been one of our most successful meetings.

Eighteenth Annual Meeting, June 25, 1890.

Thayer 3. Beaman in the chair. The Secretary presented his reports of the dinner and meeting of last year, which were accepted. He then reported the deaths of Gambrill, Severance, and Winn. Brief accounts of their lives were read; and, after remarks from several of the class present, it was voted that, in place of formal resolutions, the Secretary should send to the widows and families of the deceased letters of sympathy. The meeting then adjourned. Bird, who had not been with us since 1873, was present.

The ninth annual dinner took place at Young's, June 23, 1891, fourteen members being present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Austin, Babbitt, Burgess, Gibson, both Halls, Keith, Lincoln, A. Lord, Sheldon, E. C.

Sherburne, White, and Wyman. The Secretary presided. We had delegations from classes of '64 and '76, and also sent delegates to these classes, and made up in spirit what we lacked in numbers.

Nineteenth Annual Meeting, June 24, 1891.

Thayer 3. Almy in the chair. The Secretary's reports were presented, and accepted. The Secretary also reported the death of P. S. Stone, whose critical illness had been announced to the class at our last Commencement meeting; and it was voted that the Secretary convey to Mrs. Stone the sympathy of the class in her great loss. It was voted that printed notices of all dinners be hereafter sent to the class by the Secretary.

Twentieth Annual Meeting, June 29, 1892.

Thayer 3. Kidder in the chair. The Secretary presented short reports for the year and of the funds, which were accepted, and then called attention of the class to the circular as to the new Harvard Graduates' Magazine. It was voted that he be authorized to subscribe twenty-five dollars a year from the class fund towards the expense of organizing and starting the same, provided the class at its dinner this evening should ratify the vote, the attendance at the meeting being small. The Secretary also reported the death of Lowell D. Allen, who for a short time was connected with the class, but who graduated with the class of '73. Attention was also called to the circular as to the fund for the Soldiers' Field, and the meeting adjourned. Among those present were Ledyard R. Stone and Muhlenberg.

The tenth annual dinner took place June 29, 1892. By the courtesy of Andrew, the dinner was given at the Algonquin Club. Forty-two members of the class were present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Almy, Babbitt, Baker, Beaman, Brown, Burgess, Cabot, Elliot, Fiske, Guild, both Halls, Hasbrouck, both Hills, Hubbard, Hulme, Hutchins, Kidder, Ledyard, Lincoln, Lord, Mills, Palmer, Parkhurst, Parks, Pousland, E. B. Russell, Sheldon, E. C. Sherburne, F. S. Sherburne, Smith, Stone, Shorey, Thornton, Thwing, Titus, White, Williams, Wyman, Young. Andrew was expected to preside, but was detained in Washington; and Mills took his place. Babbitt acted as toastmaster. The class of '72 was responded to by Young. Sheldon responded for the university, Hutchins for the bar, and Almy for the bench. The question of "Whether we can carry New York?" was responded to by Beaman and R. Stone. In the absence of Gibson, "The Class Cradle Baby" was responded to by Babbitt and Ledyard. Hubbard spoke on athletic sports. The Secretary read letters from absent members, and reported on the condition of the class fund. The vote of the morning, that he be authorized to subscribe from the class fund twenty-five dollars a year for three years for the new magazine, was ratified.

The class also voted that the Class Committee should again ascertain the sentiment of the class as to how often the class dinners should be given. A vote of thanks was passed to Andrew for his courtesy in obtaining for us the use of the Algonquin Club. The class then sang several songs from a printed collection made for the occasion and for future use by E. C. Sherburne and Parkhurst, and it was after midnight when we separated.

Twenty-first Annual Meeting, June 28, 1893.

Thayer 3. Titus in the chair. So few were present, it was voted to postpone all business until dinner in the evening.

The eleventh annual dinner took place at the Algonquin Club, June 28, 1893. Twenty-eight members were present, as follows: J. M. Allen, Almy, Babbitt, Callender, Gibson, both Halls, both Hills, Hubbard, Hutchins, Keith, Lawrence, Lincoln, Lord, Mills, Parkhurst, Parks, Russell, Sheldon, both Sherburnes, Thwing, Tilden, Titus, Tufts, White, and Wyman. The Secretary presided, and presented his reports for the year and of the class fund, which were accepted. The death of Austin was reported, and resolutions adopted. Tilden was with us from Japan, and gave us some account of his experience in that country. Tufts was also present from Acadia College, and spoke. The question of presenting some memorial from the class to the college was brought up by Hutchins, and it was voted that a committee of five, of which the Secretary should be chairman, should be appointed by the Secretary, to consider the question of whether the class should commemorate their connection with the University by any gift, and, if so, what form of gift would be suitable. After the usual singing the class separated at eleven o'clock.
